Corinne Joy Brown

Corinne Joy Brown is an urban cowgirl with one eye on the range. A home furnishings and accessories retailer and interior designer, she's also a freelance writer who contributes often to Architecture & Design of the West and Colorado Expressions. She's a senior writer at Working Ranch and Persimmon Hill, the publication of the National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum and has covered home decor for Western & English Today since 1996. The author of two bestsellers about the West and a popular children's book, preserving our western heritage and sharing it is a growing passion. Her own Western dinnerware collection exceeds 300 pieces and counting.
